SUMMARY

Tokar M. THE UNIVERSAL TENDENCIES AND THE REGIONAL PECULIARITIES OF THE SOVIETIZATHIA OF THE POLITICAL REGIMES OF TRANSCAPATHIA IN THE XX CENTURY.

The process of so to say Sovietizathia of the political regimes of Transcapathia during XX century took place with the definite regional peculiarities in the different periods of the historical development. Such attempts one can regards from the position of the three stages.

The first of which lays up to the period of the ending of the First World War, disintegration of Austria and Hungary monarchy and the political changes in Hungary which was consists of Transcapathia towards 1919. The second stage of the fragment process one can refer to the time of the liberation this region by the Soviet Army in autumn 1944 from the Hungarian rule and the first steps of the new power of the Transcarpathian Ukraine. The third stage touches to the fact of the official entering of our land as the Transcarpathian region to the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic in 1946 and the process of the adaptation to the classical system which the different manifestations.
